

Golden Rule

If you can say or do something nice or good, say something, and/or do something; but if you cannot say or do anything nice or good, don't say anything, and don't do anything.

The above can change the world